

Household Inventory

Protecting your valuables

Your best protection against a financial loss is proper and adequate insurance. Your Grange independent agent will work with you to ensure you have the right protection for your needs.

This booklet was designed to help you complete a household inventory. A detailed inventory of the contents of your household will help you determine the amount of insurance you need. In addition, in the case of a loss, you have a reminder of all the items destroyed or stolen so that nothing is overlooked during the claims settlement.

Instructions

- Record the major items of each room separately.
- Estimate an amount for miscellaneous small items in each room.
- For valuable items, show year of purchase and the purchase price if known.
- For additional identification, photograph or videotape your household goods and valuables.
- Keep the completed inventory in a safe deposit box or somewhere away from your residence, to ensure it will be intact in the case of a total loss. Ask your agent to keep your inventory file.
